We are the Ammo Chiefs Association, a not-for-profit; fraternal Association dedicated to the promotion of camaraderie among active duty and retired USAF AMMO Chiefs. Our members work throughout the year to raise funds for worthwhile charitable causes such as the Richard Gauvin Memorial Fund, the Enlisted Widows Foundation, and to respond to members of the Ammo community in time of distress. The ACA contributes to the morale of active duty AMMO troops at the Chapter level through recognition and sports programs. The ACA sponsors awards programs for the AMMO School House Outstanding Performer, and AFCOMAC Outstanding Performer. ## From Your President

As we begin the 2012 year a lot of planning has already been accomplished in support of our 2012 ACA Reunion. “Big” John Greer from Emerald Coast Chapter presented a solid game plan for the 25-28 Oct 2012 Reunion to the ACA BOD during our meeting 14 Mar 2012. He was able to work with Holiday Inn Resort in Ft Walton Beach Florida to provide rooms for the same price as 2010. I’ve attached more details in the newsletter for your review. All info is also being posted on the ACA website. Please take some time to review reunion information and start making plans to attend what will be another outstanding reunion.

Again I want to pass on my thanks to our membership and new Board of Directors for their continued support of the ACA organization and local chapters. Without your candidate support we would not be able to do what we are so proud to do as an organization. To sustain our organization, we must continue to grow through new memberships and regain support from past members that have allowed their membership to lapse.

I plan to write up what some might call a mission statement for our organization for the next newsletter. To put forth an attainable game plan, I would like to have your feedback to help guide me as I draft up a roadmap. One of the areas we will address is updating the constitution. To be a successful organization, we must review and update every couple years or so; we mustn’t get stuck in a rut.

I hope to make a few changes in the Shell and Flame Newsletter in the coming months. I would like to have a section for our younger Ammo troops to ask an Ammo chief(s) question(s). To make this work we have to get the word down to their level by sharing the newsletter with them. They would send me an email to my home email address rpennington7@cox.net; they would have the option to have their name and base published. I think our younger Ammo troops have many questions they would like to have feedback on from an historical stand point; old weapons versus new ones; deployments/short tours/-what it was like being an Ammo troop 20-30-40-50 years ago.

I would also like to get pictures from around the globe of our Ammo troops supporting the mission. We might not be able to put all of them in the newsletter; however, we can create an area on our ACA website. I’ve put a few in this newsletter I got off the wire that our membership not on a military network wouldn’t be able to see. I think it’s important to let our young Ammo troops know we appreciate their dedication in supporting the mission and upholding the true Ammo tradition of team work and brotherhood that only the Ammo troop understands.

This year as well as every year we see our fellow Ammo chiefs retire and move on to another phase in their lives. Some get lucky and find employment in some form of Ammo line of work while others venture off into a new career path. We wish all of them success in whichever path they take; we only hope they will continue to support the Ammo community that made them successful, for without the support of the team, they wouldn’t have made it to the top.

I look forward to your feedback.

On a sad note we lost an Ammo troop while on R&R at home, his Obituary is included in our newsletter.

Distinctive Badge for 2WO Ammo!

A proposal for a distinctive Ammo Badge was submitted to the Uniform Board in May 2008 by Ammo MSgt Richard Mortimer with the support of the ACA. Unfortunately, the board did not approve the badge. However, it has recently come to our attention that there is a modicum of hope that the badge stands a chance of being approved in the foreseeable future. Many of us were disappointed in 1986 when the proposed Munitions Occupational Badge was combined with Aircraft

Maintenance to create an Aircraft Maintenance & Munitions Badge. In 1993 that badge was renamed the Maintenance Badge. Whenever, we have the opportunity let's provide positive support and publicity for approval of this symbol to recognize our profession.

From the Secretary

First of all, my thanks to Fred for his help getting me up to speed on what this job includes. Next, let's talk about this year's reunion in Ft. Walton Beach. One of my first "official acts" was to ask everyone who planned to attend. So far, only 55 of you say you are coming and that includes your wives & guests. With an active membership of around 160, I know we can do better than that! We owe it to "Big John" Greer and the ECC to get off the dime and make a commitment to make this reunion the biggest and best one yet!

To date, we have 31 members who are delinquent paying their 2012 dues. Get out the checkbooks and let's get it done guys! By the way, why not consider converting what you have already paid in yearly dues into a Lifetime Membership? Contact me, I'll make sure we're in "synch" and it's a done deal. Several long time members have gone this route, makes it easier for all.

Look forward to working with you all in the next few months / years to help keep the ACA strong and make it even better where possible. One area you could all assist us with is reaching out to a prospective member or two and doing some "recruiting" work for the ACA. Thank you in advance for doing it. Reach me anytime at: ammo.chiefs.association@gmail.com.

Barrentine Trophy (CMSgt Wilbur R. Barrentine)

Is on display in Enlisted Heritage Hall at Gunter AFS AL. The Barrentine Trophy was retired to the hall in the mid-90s. The SAC Bomb Comp entailed a buildup of 82s and M117s on a 40' for competition. We've taken the opportunity to glean from the past so my team and the 6 BWs are plowing new ground for the Global Strike Challenge Munitions Maintenance Competition. Our plan includes assembly 42ea Mk-82s on 40', 18ea GBU-31s and MAC assembly; we've also introduced a Handling Skills Rodeo with MHU-110 trailer, 40' trailer backing and bomb stacking competition.

So, far the guys love the spirit of competition and bragging rights. Last year the 2 BW won the Best Bomb Munitions Maintenance Team Trophy and Ellis Giant Sword Trophy for Best Bomber maintenance while the 28 BW at Ellsworth one the Best Overall Bomb Wing (Fairchild Trophy).

This was mainly a SAC loading award. I've advocated to the Global Strike Challenge Committee to start our own traveling ammo trophy we'll see how much I can get done with fiscal constraints in our near future.

First Ammo Chief?

With the new year and as we enter the 70th anniversary of the first year of World War II, it is perhaps appropriate to reflect on who were the first Ammo Chiefs in an attempt to identify and honor them. Certainly they would have been individuals who served during or immediately after WW2. This has turned into a perennial discussion for the ACA as we have not been able to pin down specific Chiefs. On the first Chiefs list, individuals were selected and promoted with dates of rank of 1 December 1959 and 1 June 1960. There are two Ammo Chiefs on the 1 June 60 list, i.e. CMSgt Wilbur R. Barrentine and CMSgt Harold Prevett. If you are so inclined perhaps you would peruse the list and see if you recognize any other names that can be included as the First Ammo Chiefs:

At the time the first Chiefs were selected they may have been 462's as SAC administratively converted all SAC 461X0s to 462 in 59/60. The most senior member of the ACA is CMSgt Bob Reinhardt (with a 1962 DOR, enlisted 1948); Bob was a 462 at the time he was selected. Also before 1965 the EOD AFSC was 461X1 and 9-levels moved freely between EOD and Ammo as you had to be Ammo to become EOD and you had to be filling a 9-level slot to be awarded a 9-level (how times have changed).

Both Chief Larry Diamco and I were well acquainted with Chief Barrentine, in interest of full disclosure I was once his gopher (when he was Munitions Chief of the 27th MMS at Little Rock) and he was my mentor over a number of years. I knew Chief Prevett from my early EOD days.

Chief Rick Velasquez is the Global Strike Command Ammo Functional Manager. The munitions trophy for "Giant Sword" is named for Chief Barrentine. Rick is trying to gain a historical perspective of the old SAC Bomb Comp. He would appreciate anyone who was part of those competitions before they were wound up in the 80s contacting him richard.velasquez@barksdale.af.mil

From a historical point on the 1 June 60 list is CMSgt Walter Bell (EOD 461X1). Chief Bell was an Ammo Troop survivor of the Bataan Death March. I know of two other Ammo troops who were on the Bataan Death March, Lt Col Herb Tyson and SSgt Jessie White. If anyone out there hears of others please let us know so we can compile a "Roll of Honor".

ACA Mid-Atlantic Chapter

The Ammo Chiefs Association Mid-Atlantic Chapter (ACAMC) officially installed Eddie Fuquay as our new Vice President effective January 1, 2012. The chapter looks forward to Eddie's service in this position.

Our membership is holding at 17 Ammo Chiefs and 3 Associate members. We continue to reach out to our Ammo Chiefs at Seymour-Johnson AFB, but to no avail. Hopefully, the next Ammo Chief PCSing in will participate since we have a lot to offer for the Ammo troops. We also started a new initiative to see if qualified members from Georgia and South Carolina would like to join our chapter. It appears they have not been included in the Emerald Coast chapter and do not have a chapter of their own. We see a lot of potential around Robins and Shaw AFBs.

John Matthews retired from his job at the Pentagon and the Chapter sent a card and a gift certificate for a classy restaurant (in Upper Marlboro??? - ☺) for him and Myong.

On a sad note, we sent a condolence card to Lt Gen Leo Marquez' family when he passed away. The Ammo Community will miss him! We also sent a condolence card to Hank Lightbody in sympathy of the passing of his wife June. TJ Jensen and John Matthews had surgery and we sent get-well cards to them.

We submitted the annual chapter report to the ACA Secretary. We still owe the annual fiscal report to the ACA (the computer with the data was lent out for a long time).

We passed on information about the 2012 ACA Reunion to the membership. It looks like it will be another memorable affair!

The ACAMC held its first meeting of the year at Pat Barcus' house. We had seven members present and three proxies. We discussed purchasing more coins so they are available to sell at the Senior Munitions Managers Conference. Our beginning balance of over $1675.00 will allow us to support this purchase. We also owed money to Pat Barcus for two awards and to Bill for McCullough for John's gift certificate.

Finally, we reached out to our Loader Chiefs and sent copies of our Constitution and Bylaws to them so they can possibly start a local chapter in the Washington, DC area. Imitation is the greatest compliment!!!

Wilbur C. McCullough III
Secretary, ACAMC

Ammo Troops in Action

SHAW AIR FORCE BASE, S.C. -- Editor's note: This was part four of a four-part series on the 20th Fighter Wing's role in Operation Unified Protector.

The primary role of the 20th Fighter Wing's F-16 Fighting Falcons is the suppression and destruction of enemy air defenses. During OUP, they supported NATO by protecting assets through finding and eliminating anything that could take out coalition aircraft.

However, they also had another role in OUP. The 20th FW dropped more than 40 product dispenser unit-5s containing more than 50,000 leaflets each, contributing to NATO's psychological operations.

"We were heavily engaged in the psyops game," said U.S. Air Force Lt. Col. Johnny Vargas, 77th Fighter Squadron commander. "We would watch CNN and see people holding up the leaflets dropped by us that caused some of the Libyan regime fighters to defect."

The leaflets had another goal beyond defection.

"This showed we were also concerned with preserving lives," said U.S. Air Force Senior Master Sgt. Delbert Areford, 55th Aircraft Maintenance Unit superintendent. "We let the civilians know we were coming in so they could get out of the way."

Involvement with the PDU-5s was a rare experience for all of those involved, from building to dropping them.

"Leaflet bombs have been dropped by F-16s before," said U.S. Air Force Col. Charlie Moore, 20th Fighter Wing commander. "But none of our pilots currently here have ever dropped them before. It was a unique thing trying to figure out how to do it: making, loading and dropping them."

U.S. Air Force Staff Sgt. Brian Beaty, 20th Equipment Maintenance Squadron munitions flight, was the Shaw lead on building the PDUs.

"It was a pretty incredible experience putting them together," he said. "Not many people in the Air Force have gotten this opportunity."

The PDU is based on the idea of cluster bombs, Beaty explained. A box inside would peel open like a banana, then the leaflets come out and float to the ground.

"There's very little explosion to it," he said.

The process to making a PDU was long and sometimes stressful, Beaty said. It took about three hours to do it with a six-man team. The hardest part was rolling the leaflets because there were so many and it took awhile.

"We'd have leaflet parties where a bunch of us would get together and roll them," he added.

Many times someone would almost finish a roll, and then it would burst open, Beaty described while laughing. Or, someone would stand up to pick up and move a roll, wouldn't have it tight enough and it would all come apart.

"There was an art to it," he added. "I never saw anyone get it right the first time. It was stressful, but it gave us some good laughs."

After rolling the leaflets, they'd pull the fin kit off the back of the PDU and put about 20 rolls into the container.

We rolled whatever lot NATO needed and got in as many that we needed to fill or build, Beaty added.

The munitions troops worked around the clock in three separate shifts to ensure everything was always ready for the jets heading out.

"We always had everything prepped for the jets before they were ready to go," Beaty continued. "It was stressful, but it was a good feeling knowing what we were doing was for such a great cause."

The story of the 20th FW's role in OUP is a story of success based on team work, Moore said. Individuals from every group in the wing contributed to it.

"Everyone was there to complete the mission," said U.S. Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Schnabel, 55th Fighter Squadron commander. "Being a part of something to remove a tyrant from killing his people is a noble cause. I believe everyone there was proud of that."

"The success of the 20th FW in OUP was superb," Moore exclaimed. "A war broke out and the unique capabilities of the U.S. Air Force were needed, and we knocked it out of the park. They came and asked for the best to do it, and we sent the best."

Words from the AOR

I saw your “call for photo’s” in the latest edition of the Flame and Shell. We recently performed a GBU-54 (LJDAM) build (total qty 54ea) in December. There were a mix of Seymour Johnson and ANG AMMO troops from DC, NJ, SD and IA.

In the last two months of 2011, Bagram Air Field has expended 228ea GBU-38s, 66ea GBU-54s, 70ea GBU-31(V1)s, 5.2K rnds of 20MM HEI and 10,400 sticks of Flare. It’s not “humping” by any means, but enough to keep us gainfully employed.

Thanks again for the box of goodies and the ACA’s continued support...

BAGRAM AIRFIELD, Afghanistan -- A select group of men and women of the 455th Expeditionary Maintenance Squadron gathered together around a munitions assembly conveyor to execute a semi-annual assembled munitions serviceability inspection at Bagram Airfield Dec. 28, 2011. Munitions systems specialists, known as Ammo Dawgs, receive, inspect, issue, assemble and test, maintain, inventory and transport guided and unguided munitions. They use and maintain munitions test sets and munitions-specific trailers, loaders and tractors. Ammo Dawgs ensure the war fighting readiness of explosives from small arms or egress components, to ejections seats and 4,500-pound bunker penetrating bombs.

Staff Sgt. Alex Brzoska, 455th EMXS conventional maintenance supervisor, said the Ammo mission is to be a war fighter. One aspect of this is to arm the fight by ensuring munitions will function as designed when the trigger is pulled.

"We build bombs from scratch," he said. "We receive the bomb body and the components for assembly. Then every six months we have to verify that what we built is still accurate. We undo all the components to make sure it is still serviceable."

During the AMSI, Ammo Airmen disassembled armament within their stock and verified that all the components were still functioning. The inspections are performed twice as often here as in the United States due to the dirt, sand and weather conditions that exists.

The team members visually inspected each component of the MK 82 bomb bodies and KMU-572 tail kits which lay in front of them. Also, electronic fuses and laser detector kits were inspected. In addition, they ran an integrated built-in test using the AN/GYQ-79A test set to test electronic features.

All bombs passed the AMSI. Throughout December, the Ammo team inspected 22 bombs and performed 355 post load visual/IBIT inspections on bombs that were unloaded from aircraft due to aircraft maintenance.

Airman 1st Class Zachary Coleman, 455th EMXS munitions systems specialist, said he enjoys his job at Bagram Airfield. He said, "It is a good feeling to know that whenever troops on the ground call in an air strike, the bombs that we build work dead on and save lives." That feeling is shared by many of his fellow Ammo Airmen. "It's very satisfying," said Brzoska. "You're keeping people alive. It's very gratifying."
