From Your President

We are only a few days away from the 2012 ACA Reunion. “Big” John Greer and crew from Emerald Coast Chapter headed up several fundraising events to support the reunion. We understand everyone can’t make it to the reunion; however, that doesn’t mean you can’t take part in the business meeting that is scheduled to take place during the reunion. Please take some time to put your thought on paper and send them in to us, the floor is open at this point to discuss any issues relevant to our association. I’ve included a proxy for you to appoint one of the attending ACA BOD members to act on your behalf. This process will ensure we have the voice of the membership on any issue identified before or during the business meeting. The proxy must be received prior to the start of the business meeting.

Got some of the highlights from one of the Ammo Bowls with a few pictures, its great the Ammo community can still rally to a good softball game. Many of the old timers remember when the Ammo troops from around the globe would assemble at a central location for what could be considered the Ammo World Series. Due to funding cuts and world events we may never see those days again; however, it doesn’t mean the spirit of the game isn’t still there. Congratulations to all of the teams that took part.

We would like to pass on our thanks to Chief Ricky Hamada for his support to the Ammo community while serving as the Air Force Ammo Functional Manager; and best wishes as he heads back to Kunsan. Chief Chris Arnold has been selected as the next Air Force Ammo Functional Manager, he’s moving up from HQ ACC we wish him the best in his new position and look forward to his continued support to the Ammo community.

Special thanks to Fred and Jack for leading the effort to get the new Ammo Spirit Award Coin designs for AFCOMAC and the Ammo School House. They have them on hand now and will be presenting them to each of the outstanding performing students. We hope to get pictures from AFCOMAC and Ammo School House to post on our website.

I’m still looking for electronic pictures from around the globe of our Ammo troops supporting their mission. We might not be able to put all of them in the same newsletter; however, we will use them in future editions. I think it’s important to continue to let our Ammo troops know we appreciate their dedication in supporting the Air Force mission and upholding the true Ammo tradition of team work and brotherhood that only Ammo troops understand.

For ACA Newsletter inputs please send to:

John Matthews at rammoc1994@comcast.net

Rich Pennington at rpennington7@cox.net

Look forward to seeing you at the reunion and for those that can’t make, we still need your continued support to keep our organization moving forward.

In a few weeks the new Ammo Chiefs list will be published and we look forward to congratulating them and wishing them continued success in their career and new assignments for many of them.

From the Secretary

Hope everyone had a great Summer. Most of us are now looking forward to some cooler weather, football and before you know it, Thanksgiving and Christmas!! I hope most of us will take the time to Vote on 6 November. This is an important one folks, like they all are, but I think this one is even more so considering the shape our country is in.

All ACA Members in good standing should have received an email a while back with the newly revised Constitution attached in PDF format. To date, have not received any comments on it one way or the other so I'm assuming most of you are good with it. For the information of those who opposed opening up more Associate Membership, guess what? I have yet to receive the first application for one. Those of us who thought we'd get a few more Associates and maybe bump up our $$ in the ACA treasury were fooled also.

The newly "minted" Challenge Coins have been received and sent out to be presented to the Top Academic Graduates at the Schoolhouse and to Top "Iron Flag" Performers at AFCOMAC. We also have the new ACA Membership coins for all future Members.

I'll close by mentioning this one last time this year. The nine (9) Members delinquent on their 2012 dues are no longer considered Members in good standing. You know who you are guys, either pay up or remain on the inactive list. What more can I say?

Have a great Fall Season.

Jack IYAAYAS !!!!

Ammo Chief Reunion- Update

The Emerald Coast Chapter had two reunion meetings.

We have 23 rooms reserved for a total of 74 room nights and we are still expecting 3-5 locals to get rooms at the last minute. There are presently 45 folks signed up for the Icebreaker, 57 people signed up for the Saturday dinner, 9 golfers signed up, 5 fishermen, and 37 signed up for breakfast. The worst thing about the reunion is so many people have backed out for health and other reasons (17) we are off our numbers from last year by a substantial amount. (96) Many of our regular attendees did not sign up and when I inquired via email they either did not respond or said they changed their mind and decided not to come. So I guess we are getting to be old hat and need to find another place to host it. (Which won't break my heart by the way) But either way as our membership continues to age we will have to deal with less and less attendees each year and the venue will have to be something that draws them to a good location. Each year we ask for critiques to see what we can do to make it better for the next one but receive very few comments other than good ones. We have made drastic changes to the menu this year in hopes of having those changes help folks want to come back next time but with the low turnout it may well be a lost effort. Oh well, those attending will enjoy it I am sure.

As I said I have also attached the August meeting minutes that I believe Darrell already sent you but, I have made some minor changes to them but there is our activities for the quarter and although like I said when we talked the wives did the Lion's share of the work for the golf tourney Doris and Ronnie were the leaders in those efforts. They are also taking the lead with Heather Sims (new VP's wife) in dealing with the Homeless Veterans Stand down day efforts.

Maybe after the reunion we can steer our efforts towards getting some new members signed up and bolster our sagging rosters and draw some new blood into the fold. As always I stand ready to do whatever it takes to make this organization better.

2012 Western AMMO Bowl

The 2012 Western was held in Ogden Utah at the 4th street complex over the 4th of July weekend. There were 10 teams entered: DM, Luke, Nellis, Mt Home, APU (Whiteman & Pick-ups), ORF, Beale, Hill 388th, Hill 649th, Hill combined (defending Champs). The festivities started off with a nice Ice Breaker at the Copper Club in Ogden with a special surprise, a local brewer renamed one of their beers AMMO Ale. The round robin draw was set at the ice breaker and we were ready to throw down Saturday.

On Saturday at 0800 the opening ceremonies started with the national anthem and some opening words from the 388th Chief, Chief Eisenberg. The games can now begin. There were some hick-ups as there are with many AMMO Bowls most can be chalked up to a lack of volunteers. At the end of day one there were some unfamiliar teams at the top of the bracket. APU was the top seed, Beale was # 2 and the Hill combined team snuck it at number three after taking a beating at the hands of Beale at the end of the day.

Sunday started off and there were some more surprises. Rounds 1-2 were not kind to the top two seeds as they dropped to the losers bracket quickly clearing the way for the number 3 seed Hill to have a shot at repeating. As the day progressed and the heat continued to climb you started to see the teams running out of steam but Hill remained hot. It came down to a repeat of last year, Hill vs ORF for all the marbles. ORF was depleted by injuries but put up a great fight. In the end team Hill proved to be too strong and with consistent play they pulled off the repeat only losing one game in the RR to Beale. finished 2nd, DM pulled the 3rd spot, with APU coming in 4th. It was a great time Beer, Sun, Softball and old friends does it get any better than this! IYAAAYAS!!! More photos can be seen on Facebook, Western Ammo Bowl

Hi, I am a retired SMSgt, 46190, had a line number to Chief when I retired. I was a SSgt, 46170, with the 56 Special Operations Wing, Det. 1, Udorn Thailand assigned for 13 months to the clandestine operations in Laos. I wrote this article for a T-28 site and Fred liked it because it was different from other AMMO stories, we were a 13 man team, trained some on each other's jobs so we could carry on if one got hurt or was gone for some reason. Even got to do a lot of back seat flying too, to search out targets and put in air strikes, and to be a part of an air strike if we were in a T-28 loaded with munitions. I have photo's at <http://www.flickr.com/photos/60121715@N00/> We were a disciplined group, made our rules as we went and bent them as needed to make the daily effort a success. I can say that my best assignment in my Air Force career was at RAF Welford, this one was second.

Thanks for your interest.
Don Harp, IYAAYAS

Don Harp, bomb dump, Pakse Laos, 69

Approximately 440 miles south of Vientiane Laos lies the quiet and peaceful city of Pakse, provincial capital of Champasak. Situated on the banks of the Mekong and Xe don Rivers, a city of 70,000 people was known as the boring part of Laos when compared to Louang Phabang and Vientiane. I arrived in Pakse in April 1969 and instantly realized how welcome I was and very happy to be here. I moved in to the AIRA house, a mansion situated among the loosely boarded houses, on stilts with corrugated tin roofs that our neighbors live in. I got situated in my room, met the house girls, Hoa and Si, who did an excellent job to keep the house clean and meals served. I can't remember the name of the cook but he was full of personality and made a lot of jokes and laughed at them more than we did. I met the rest of the crew at dinner and had a feeling I was with a great bunch of men. The boss (Bender) had a f__k you Snoopy Flag in one hand and a bottle of Crown Royal in the other, a sign this was a close knitted group with a colorful persona and meaningful mission.

Bomb pad, ole black, T-28's, Pakse Laos, 1-11, 70

I went to the flightline the next day and met the RLAF T-28 Pilots, base Commander, Col. Khoung, and the maintenance personnel. As I met more and more of the Laotian people I knew I had been given a good assignment, to help these wonderful people in their struggle for what they believed in. I counted eleven T-28 aircraft, two O-1's, and one Cessna Skymaster. At that time I never realized how much work these planes would make for us. The RLAF personnel were mission dedicated, honorable and patriotic with an eagerness to defend his country equal to any Air Force in the world. We never had to look for pilots as they were there every day ready to rock and roll. The maintenance personnel, watched over by Gene Wallace, John Tolley and Van, maintained the fleet of aircraft at 100% in commission rate on a daily basis. I made sure the munitions were ordered in and assembled for loading on the aircraft. I soon learned that each pilot liked a certain type of munitions and I would give them what they wanted as long as it fit the target requirements. I also worked on the T-28's with Gene and loaded bombs with Mike. Our T-28's (56 Special Operations Wing, Det 1) flown by the RLAF pilots (who never referred to them as trainers) and the O-1's flown by the Ravens searched out and destroyed targets in all the southern part of Laos, mainly on the Bolovens Plateau over to Attapeu and Saravane and the Ho Chi Min Trail. The pilots were good and hit the target most of the time and were brave on the run in on target to get low enough to see, judge, and destroy it. In the fourteen months I was there we lost two O-1's, one flown by Jay Puckett, went down on the way back to base after a day of putting in air strikes, one flown by Ken Thompson crashed at Attapeu with a blocked fuel line, one O-1 was seriously damaged by ground fire, two T-28's were lost, one of which took the life of pilot Dara at Saravane, two T-28's were damaged- one ran off the runway at Pakse, one suffered explosion and fragmentation damage from a near miss by a Russian 140 mm Rocket. We could have suffered from sabotage when someone wired the landing gear with arming wire so it would rip out the fuel lines when the landing gear was raised after takeoff. The routine morning inspection of the aircraft discovered this and prevented a disaster, the culprit was never caught.

Coolies assembling Mk-82, 500 lb bombs

The T-28 pilots would bring back the empty CBU Dispensers so they could sell them as scrap metal. One day we nearly suffered a disaster when a T-28 landed with four CBU Dispensers, one of which failed to dispense all the BLU-3B Bomblets. When the T-28 touched down the jarring effect caused the bomblets to fall out all over the runway. Now we had fifteen armed and very dangerous fragmentation bomblets lying on the runway, T-28's in the air low on gas and wanting to land, one Lao Airlines Turbo Prop in the landing pattern. The Boss (Bender) asked me if I was brave and crazy enough to go out and move the bomblets off the runway so the aircraft could land. I did this and I can say this had me scared and wrecked my nerves. Normal EOD would have safed the bomblets but I had no way to do that so had to handle them fully armed and ready to function if the striker plate was tapped even slightly. I brought them back to the T-28 ramp, locked them in a storage building and took them out and destroyed them a week later. The aircraft landed safely and the pilots bought me beer that night at the Mekong Bar. The rocket attacks we got on average of three or four a month were nothing compared to this! I was awarded the Meritorious Service Medal for this action.

In June 1970, with a heavy heart, I had to leave Pakse and return to the USA for a follow-on assignment to Lakenheath England. The pilots gave me a "RLAF AFB PAKSE" silver and gold bracelet with my name on it as a going away and thank you gift. This meant so much to me that today, thirty-nine years later, it still is out on display beside a model of a T-28 with a Cobra painted on the Oil Cooler Door. I have never worked with a better bunch of men, Laotian and American, in all my twenty-four years in the U. S. Air Force. The Laotian people are most wonderful and gracious with an unmatched willingness to share and welcome you in to their lives and homes. I felt like family and I think of them often. My pride is high when I remember all those smiling faces getting in to their T-28 Fighter Bombers, the sound of the engine starting and the roar as it goes down the runway taking off fully loaded with munitions. I hope all of them are alive and happy, if any of them read this I say "Hi my friend, thanks for giving me the privilege of knowing you".

Held meeting at Mike Robinson house were the members were treated to outstanding hospitality and food by his wife Myong. The chapter also took part in the retirement ceremony of Retired Chief Mike Gavin from civil services. Counting his active duty Mike complete 37 years of service to his country. We all wish him the best as he now has more time for one of his favorite hobbies—hunting. Another chapter member will most likely be moving on to his next career as Chief Pat Barcus retired and looking to move to the Dayton area for his next job. The chapter also welcomed a new member Chief Stuart Nikolas who replaced Chief Barcus.
